there is a representation below in a comment of the argument that there is a natural world and humans should regard it as at our disposal (andor in our trust in some cases) he also stated that abuse by snorting or injecting suboxone could make a person “extremely high” if he (or she) had not recently been using other opiates.